Led by some of the most distinguished matrimonial attorneys in the state, Snyder & Sarno has quickly become one of the premier matrimonial law boutiques in New Jersey. The firm has achieved a remarkable balance, with aggressive litigators and a dedicated alternative dispute resolution practice.

Founding partner Angelo Sarno handles diversified cases, including novel complex litigation in State and Federal Court. Indeed, the recent case Maeker v. Ross in the Appellate Division will impact Palimony litigation in New Jersey. Sarno is certified by the Supreme Court of New Jersey as a matrimonial lawyer and has been named in New Jersey Super Lawyers since 2005.

Partner Edward S. Snyder has argued a number of times before the New Jersey Supreme Court, including the nationally celebrated termination of alimony case Konzelman v. Konzelman and the 2012 case Tannen v. Tannen. He has been listed in The Best Lawyers in America® since 1993.

John J. Trombadore, who is of counsel to the firm, has also been selected for inclusion in Best Lawyers®. He notes, "The advice 'Don't Litigate, Mediate' is more valuable today than ever before. A seasoned mediator can offer an alternative solution to complex divorce issues in a time-effective and cost-effective manner."

With the recent addition of retired Judge Thomas Zampino as counsel, the firm can offer insight into the end result of a case. Zampino has decided thousands of divorce cases and his experience has helped in devising effective litigation strategies and expanding the firm's alternative resolution practice.

In addition, Stacey A. Cozewith—a "Rising Star" in New Jersey Super Lawyers for the past four years in a row—has been named as a new partner in the firm.
